Jonny is a friendly and outgoing man who resides in Lethbridge. He lives in a support home through ICE and has been with the agency since 2011. Jonny works 20- 25 hours a week at State and Main Restaurant, he has worked there for 5 years. He has been employed all of his adult life. Jonny loves wrestling, hockey, and the Blue Jays. He regularly has parties at his house with his friends where they watch wrestling and have pizza.

Jonny’s goals for several years have included building and maintaining his physical health, staying active and making new friendships. This year his support home operator suggested he try playing some sports through Special Olympics. Jonny agreed and ended up signing up for floor hockey, basketball, baseball and golf.

Jonny likes all of the sports he is involved with, but so far his favorite is floor hockey. He was very excited to find out that one of the floor hockey coaches is a current player for the Lethbridge Hurricanes. (The Hurricanes are Lethbridge’s Western Hockey League team) Giorgio Estephan plays centre for the Hurricanes and is now Jonny’s favorite coach. The Hurricanes organization makes volunteering a priority for their players and the benefits for everyone in the Lethbridge community are obvious.

Jonny is proud to share his statistics for this year - so far he has scored 63 goals including one stellar game where he scored 5 goals. He lights up when he talks about playing hockey and he says he will definitely continue to play sports. Jonny has made new friendships too; he plans to include several friends he has made through his involvement in Special Olympics at his next house-party to watch wrestling.

We want to say congratulations to Jonny and thank you to Special Olympics and to the Lethbridge Hurricane’s organization.

Employee Spotlight

Anny Chenard has been a Support Home Operator with ICE for almost 3 years. She says one aspect of her job that she loves is that there is always an adventure to be had. She and Jonny recently took the bus to Medicine Hat to see the Hurricanes hockey team play, and they had a great time. She also loves that she gets to be active and engaged in the Lethbridge community through supporting Jonny.

Key Steps for Pedestrian Safety

As we move into spring and spend more time out of our homes it is important to note some important street safety reminders. Walking offers opportunities to promote good health and mobility, social well-being, and personal independence but safety must also be part of the equation. Crossing a street safely is a complicated task that requires at least 26 judgement skills. Risks for street safety are increased further for persons with learning difficulties and disabilities.

At Higher Risk

A study completed over a 15 year period in California indicated that the risk of adults with learning difficulties and disabilities being killed while walking was nearly three times greater than among adults without such challenges. Persons with disabilities may experience:

- Less accuracy judging speed and distance of vehicles;
- Difficulty localizing the direction of sounds;
- Vision problems reducing their ability to scan the environment;
- Over- confidence and poor decision making abilities, trusting that others will protect them;
- Inability to read or comprehend warning signs and/or traffic signals;
- Unpredictable or impulsive behavioral patterns;
- A lack of familiarity with traffic patterns, expectations and laws;

- General impairments/deterioration of physical, cognitive and sensory abilities;
- Decreased agility, balance, stability and slow reflexes.

ICE Staff requirements for street safety:

- ICE employees on shift are at work and therefore are REQUIRED to consistently follow road safety bylaws and safety rules in accordance with ICE policies and procedures. This applies whether staff are performing actions for direct client support or performing other duties.
- DO NOT break the law or complete unsafe actions (jay walking, crossing between parked cars, crossing on a yellow or red light etc.). Staff observed to complete such unsafe actions on shift may expect corrective actions.
- Teach, model and guide exemplary street safety skills at all times when accompanied by ICE clients such as crossing at marked crosswalks or with the walk signal at traffic lights. Teach clients to look both ways for traffic and cross only when sure traffic has come to a complete stop. When client street safety skills have not been determined, staff should walk directly along-side clients not far ahead of them or lagging behind them. Teach clients to make sure drivers have seen them before attempting to cross the street in front of them.
- Stress the importance of walking on the inside of the sidewalk. If there are no sidewalks, encourage clients to walk as far away as possible from the travelled portion of the road on the shoulder facing traffic.

- Encourage positive street safety choices such as clients wearing retro-reflective clothing or lighter colours if they will be walking after dark.
- Explain and model positive behavior related to use of electronic devices for the individuals you support. Avoid use of such devices while travelling in the community as they take attention away from street safety. You and/or the client may not see a dangerous traffic hazard if your eyes are on a phone or iPod.

Remember a single error while crossing a street can have critical consequences. ICE employees must lead by example.
